CREATE AWESOME EVENING EYES

It's time for that big dinner date. You've got the perfect dress and hairstyle. Now there's the issue of applying just the right makeup. So what should you do? "Colorful shimmer shadows are great for evening," says makeup artist Jane Iredale. "Apply a thin layer of lid primer on the eyelid, then put shimmer shadows on top." She suggests looking for complementary colors that would match your overall look and eye color. "Lilac shadow makes a green eye look greener. Warm brown to gold shades will make blue eyes look bluer. Brown eyes can pretty much go with anything."

If you're going to wear black, Iredale says you need to really enhance your makeup. "Wear a brighter lip color and put more definition around the eyes. Even use some blush to stop the skin from looking sallow from the black dress." Popular choices from her line include Whisper and Cotton Candy PurePressed Blush. "Moonglow is a product that can be used on your eyes, cheeks, and lips."

And what about the finishing touch? False eyelashes are really big, says Iredale. "They can take your makeup from day to night very easily. I suggest having your first application done professionally. Then, you can have a lesson in how to apply them."

Don't blot shine — prevent it.

Jane Iredale's Absence Primer is terrific for managing shiny T-zones. Silica, green tea, pomegranate, and seaweed are activated by body heat to control sebaceous glands; skin stays matte and make-up lasts. The product also fills in fine lines, and has SPF 15. Available in Clear (looks white in the compact) or #2 for deeper complexions.

Oil-Free Makeup

Absence Primer by Jane Iredale—The Skin Care Makeup® absorbs oil, controls overactive sebaceous glands, and regulates the pH balance of the skin. Absence features hydrated silica, which acts like a liposome. The hydrated silica forms a sphere with extracts of green tea, pomegranate, and seaweed that are attached to the outside of the sphere. The inside of the sphere is filled with seaweed compounds that are released by the action of body heat. The seaweeds reduce sebaceous hypersecretion. The empty silica shell begins to absorb sebum without affecting the moisture on the skin, because hydrated silica can hold seven times its molecular weight in oil. By encapsulating the oil, it forms a barrier between it and the makeup so that the wearer can stay oil-free all day. Absence also contains titanium and micronized zinc oxide for broad-spectrum SPF 15 protection. The makeup looks white in the compact, but it is transparent when applied. Absence is for patients with lighter skin tones. A second color, Absence 2, is available for those with darker complexions.
